

Culture for Kids

Enjoy music on the Harborwalk all summer long in the Fort Point Channel Summer Outdoor Music Series!

Wednesdays, June 23rd to September 8th, 2004
12noon to 1pm, Fort Point Channel Harborwalk outside the Children's Museum

The Friends of Fort Point Channel are proud to once again present a summer of outdoor music along the Harborwalk outside the Boston Children's Museum. Back for its second year, this free, summer-long music series, presented in collaboration with the Passim Folk Music and Cultural Center, features local musicians presenting a broad range of musical genres during the Wednesday lunchtime hour. Bring your lunch, bring your friends and your family, and enjoy the musical sounds of the summer!

Enjoy your favorite music or discover new sounds with a musical line-up including:

June 23rd – Caribbean steel drums with the Pan Loco Steel Band

June 30th – Blues with Chicago Bob

July 7th – Cajun with Grand Bois

July 14th – Cape Verdean dance with Pilon Cola

July 21st – Hip Hop with the Foundation (tentative)

July 28th – African drumming with Moussa Traore and Timinandi

August 4th – Gospel with the Diversified Faith Gospel Project

August 11th – Western swing with Mark Erelli

August 18th – Jazz with the Jeff Robinson Trio

August 25th – Bluegrass with The Resophonics

September 1st – Celtic Fiddle with Halali (tentative)

September 8th – Folk harmonies with the Niolds (tent)

All performances are FREE to the public and will take place rain or shine.

All performances, with the exception of July 14th, will be followed by informal workshops for children and their families at the Boston Children's Museum. Workshops are FREE with the purchase of Museum admission and will include opportunities to meet the performers and ask questions, learn about the instruments used, learn about the history and style of music played, or even learn a song or two!
